

Chad Luxenburg

CEO & Co-Founder scitrain, Ltd.

EXPERTISE

Keynote Speaking
C-Suite Level Coaching
Globalization
VUCA
Workforce of the Future
Leadership Behavior

EDUCATION

Bachelor's Degree in Rhetoric & Communication, Kent State University

M.A. Organizational Behavior, University of Akron

Chad is a talent management and leadership development expert offering strategic people solutions to organizations across North America. As the leader of scitrain, Chad continually focuses on developing innovative solutions to address the ever evolving and dynamic challenges facing people and leaders in organizations today. Chad works closely with organizations to customize solutions that mirror their need, specializing in Fortune 500 companies.

Prior to co-founding scitrain, Chad had been a member of corporate America for over 10 years and had served in executive leadership roles in diverse industries including global fortune 200 companies.

Over the course of his career, Chad has successfully designed, implemented, and facilitated a plethora of topics including leadership development, change management, succession planning, talent acquisition, performance systems, and building high-performance teams.

As an Executive Coach, Chad works with global C-level and other executive-level leaders. Through coaching, Chad helps leaders connect holistically with their professional and personal goals and uncovers the path to navigating complex roles successfully.

Chad is a firm believer that people can be developed by understanding their intrinsic motivators and by maximizing their potential; "if you love what you do, you will never work a day in your life..."

Premier global leadership development experts located in every major region of the world. We can provide in-person and virtual solutions in 25 languages, leveraging 120 trainers, facilitators and coaches. Learn more at scitrain.com

