Pär Skoglund Finquist is a coach, leadership consultant and award winning facilitator at atrainscitrain.

Pär has 10 years of experience from leadership development and 20 years of business experience from the Pharmaceutical Industry. Pär has experience from working with boards of various organizations as CEO, chairman and board member. He believes that agile organizations cannot scale from a reactive mindset. His insights are that full engagement from the whole organization and to focus more on the culture than the structure are key success factors for business transformation.

Pär presents himself like this: "I am the pharmacist who has realized that people need a different" that will help us achieve the greatest of our human needs to grow and develop. My passion is to help people and organizations be their "best selves" as often as possible. I am driven by development. This driving force led me to devote myself to organizational and leadership development within my previous organization and to start as external leadership consultant.

Premier global leadership development experts located in every major region of the world. We can provide in-person and virtual solutions in 25 languages, leveraging 120 trainers, facilitators and coaches. Learn more at scitrain.com
